

SOME SUMMER FASHIONS.

Net Is Considered a Very Smart Fabric This Season and the Plain Is the Favorite.

Thin, soft fabrics reign supreme this summer for afternoon gowns, and the woman who does not look pretty in such a gown is a hopeless case even for a beauty doctor and facial concoc-

Such filmy flounces of embroidery, that is so fine and so open in pattern as to look flower-like in its beauty! Such softly drawn folds of materials as drape the figures of well-dressed women in graceful lines, that no artist could improve upon! Such delicately blended color as lend a glow and life to this season's costumes! One might exclaim for hours over the points of beauty in this summer's gowns and still leave half the tale untold.

Writers say that men are growing closer to nature, and I can safely affirm that women are, too, so far as dress is concerned, that harmonizes with the spirits of nature and borrows from her all that is fairest and best, in blended colorings and simple lines of grace.

Among summer gowns net is very smart, and this announcement will be greeted with delight by women of small means, for if there is anything cheap, pretty and durable it is net. Just think, one can buy net for 59 cents a yard, and it is double width, and five or six yards will make a very full dress. Isn't that cheap? A bit of lace for the yoke and cuffs is all the trimming necessary, although more trimming can be added at pleasure.

Dotted nets are not anything like as smart as plain ones are this summer. and point d'esprit is better than dotted nets for gowns.

IDEAS FOR SHOPPERS.

Some of the quaintest of baby dresses have copied from new lounging robes the defining of the waist line by rows of shirring, or rows of lace insertion. The effect in the tiny dresses is exquisite.

Many Flowers Used.

The fashion of trimming hats with several varieties of flowers is hard to grow enthusiastic over. One little hat of the poke bonnet order was trimmed around the brim with pansies. leaves. The effect was good enough, as far as the color combination was concerned, but the mixture was too incongruous. One would not have greatly cared to see so many flowers to gether in the garden. Some combinations are attractive. A green tulle few pansies was delightful. Likewise, a sailor of lilac straw wreathed with s'er. Much discretion should enter into any combination of flowers.

Automobile Cloaks.

Automobile cloaks are made of silk kid, eilk rubber, cloth and homespun. The silk rubber are the most attractive, and are warm enough for cool summer days. Pongee makes the cool-

Don't Act as Though Every Stranger Were a Suspicious Character and Be Polite to Attendants.

TRAVELER'S ETIQUETTE.

Condescension is a language that belongs to every summer traveler, and which is spoken as much through looks as through words. There is no mistake so great as that of assuming when one is away from home a proud reserve and exclusiveness. This attitude is not a bit necessary in order to ward off dreaded familiarities, for it is easy to look about you with kindly eyes that do not invite others to attempt to take advantage of your good nature.

Above all things, be ready and glad to give information when it is asked of you and to offer it when it seems needed, as though you felt happy to be of use, and not in too much of a hurry to lend a hand to anyone in difficulties. There is absolutely no need of knocking about this good-natured old world in a dread of being imposed upon or misunderstood. This is a fear and a mistake that makes one's way hard if you go along giving tips in a grudging fashion and returning a brief answer with a cold glance to the stranger who asks you the shortest route to the next town, the hour at which the next boat leaves, or volunteers a word of friendly comment on the scenery or information concerning some historical spot.

If you wish to understand the fine art of being a happy traveler, you will be most ready always to say please and thank you to everybody, and especially to those who are employes in trains and steamers. Always give a tip with a pleasant word and an expression of one who gladly makes some return for services rendered and accept any advances toward acquaintance or slight verbal intercourse with a stranger and fellow passenger without looking affrighted, indifferent or affronted.

Shyness or lack of interest or reserve in a traveler is so often misinterpreted as snobbishness or actual ill temper that it is best always to think before rebuffing a stranger who wishes only to be polite and not intrusive. Whatever the majority approve the happy traveler npt in making his habit, too, and in consequence he is sure to please and to charm wherever he goes, to find helping hands extended to him in a moment of any difficulty, and to be considered a delightful companion for a journey.

students and schoolboys 20 years ago had no appreciation of athletics. They took too serious a view of their duties to waste on games the time that might be devoted to studies and they had to be driven by their early English professors and teachers into the play grounds as though to a disagreeable task. Now they take a keen interest in rowing, lawn tennis and baseball, though cricket, with its long periods of enforced inactivity, does not appeal to them.

Flying Experiment. A flying experiment which carries with it a good deal of interest has been carried out at Billancourt, in France. The experimenter was M. Voisin, who seated himself ready for flight on a raft towed by an auto boat. At a given signal the auto boat put on full speed. the machine began to rise, and M. A new process in the preservation of food products in transit has been invented by Charles Blagburn, of Anvacuum, and by it goods-such as fruits-can be kept for three months without decay. Slump in Heart Market. The New Rochelle carpenter with the two hearts and a burning desire to sell his body after death for $10,000, the cash to be paid now, is probably discovering an unlooked-for dullness in the human-heart market. Handy Heat.

Electric heating is steadily growing in popularity, and a good many power stations in different parts of the country are said to be selling power for that comparatively new use. It is found that electric heating is very convenient in handling some small tools, and also, under certain conditions, for cooking.

In colds the blood absorbs poison from the mucous surfaces, and the poison irritates the nerves and produces pain. In theumatism, malaria and the grip, the poison in the blood produces like discomfort. In indigestion the gases from the impure matter kept in the system affect the blood in the same way.

The ordinary headache-cures at best give only temporary relief. They deaden the pain but do not drive the poison out of the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on the contrary thoroughly renew the blood and the pain disappears permanently. Womer in particular have found these pills an unfailing relief in headaches caused by anæmia.
